Hi Gary

Before I lodge a formal complaint against Structerre I will check my facts.

To that end I am going to need a copy of the permit to build the new retaining wall at 14 Trinity Rise.

Are you able to email me a copy or should I go to the council office ?

Andrew Laughton.

Hi Andrew

Other peoples plans can be obtained in a number of ways.

By asking the people in question.

Perhaps by asking their Builder.

or from the Local Government under the Freedom of Information legislation.

The formal complaint that you mention below will be to which body/group?

Regards

Gary Bruhn

Hi Gary

Given the circumstances, asking the neighbours in question would most likely result in wasted time, and possibly aggravate them.
I have no idea who the builder is.
I will use the FOI.
Thank you for that information.

Re the formal complaint;
I thought I would get my facts together before I complained, so I have not done much research into who the governing body is, but <http://www.buildingcommission.wa.gov.au/> would be a prime candidate.
Any suggestions would be welcome.

As regards the courtesy email to Structerre, my thoughts at the moment are to give them the same courtesy they gave us when they did not even bother to tell us they were no longer working on the problem.
It might happen, but I will probably go over the heads of the people causing this problem and state my case to upper Structerre management.

I am not claiming to be an engineer either, but on the face of it Structerre are attempting to deceive us into thinking it is not their problem.

Andrew.

Hi Andrew

Please see attached a request for Freedom of Information. Note: There is no guarantee that the owner will allow the plans of there property to be released to you.

You asked for suggestions about who you may complain to about an engineers actions. To be perfectly honest several years ago the City of Busselton had need to report an engineer (not Structerre) and found out there was no disciplinary body to report engineers to. But that was 10 - 12 years ago and you as a citizen are welcome to investigate the matter and take any action you find is appropriate in your circumstance.
